School Report

The same general thoughts respecting the subject of education naturally recur from year to year. We must consider how we may best advance our schools; and in what way the culture they afford, shall be best adapted to the demands of practical life. We are to enforce a system of education for those who will soon mold society and supply the places of the receding generation.

To the more thoughtful of our citizens it may not be necessary to remark, what cannot but be apparent, that in certain directions, at least, we, as a town, are not maintaining our former position, as regards our educational standing. Let us be fair, if there are any changes in our social status; if we, as a community, have undergone or are undergoing changes as to the nature of our population that are radical and permanent; if we find each succeeding year the ranks of our native-born inhabitants thinner and thinner; if the old families, which in the past have given stability and strength to our town, are disappearing, then perhaps, we shall be able to find a cause which may, in some degree, explain the fact that our schools are not what they once were.

Our annual appropriations for the support of schools are, under the present condition of things, sufficient.

Choose the most efficient, the truest, and the best to act for you upon the school board; stand by them when they deserve it, strengthen them when you can; let the teachers who are selected receive every aid in your power, and blend your efforts harmoniously for the good of our dearest common cause.

JOHN S. QUIMBY,
HARRIET E. CARTLAND,
JOHN J. WEED.
